CALLS HER NOVELS NAUGHTY

A Baltimore Librarian Excludes Southworth's Books.

PASSED MUSTER FIFTY YEARS

The Novelist of a Half a Century Ago Expelled From the Enoch Pratt Libraries-Compared With Bertha M. Clay and the Dora Thorne School.

It is the highest ambition of a great many authors to get their writings bar red from the malls or excluded from pubhe libraries. In this country that sort of thing maker a writer fashionable. Whether by intention or design, Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, the aged novelist of George town, has succeeded in having her works batted from the Enoch Pratt libraries of Baltimore, although her success in this capacity does not arrive until her works have been before the public for nearly half a century. It would, of course, be unkind to say that Mrs. Southworth has connived at having her books excluded from the library in order to increase her mies and royalties, but the fact remains that her sales and royalties will un doubledly be increased thereby. The librarian of the Ealtimore library did not realize that he was conferring a great financial favor upon Mrs. Southworth and that he was making her as popular as even Laura Jean Libbey once with nursery maids and boarding-school Mrs. Southworth's novels, are, however.

of a much higher literary standard than the novelist of the tack kitchen and boarding loose. In fact, Mrs. Southworth's novels have obtained for her a place in literature that corresponds somewhat to that held by Jane Austen, one of the earliest of the Euglish novelists, and who was really the founder of the remaintic school of adventures of bernines and their persecutions by designing villains. Mrs. South-worth's novels are of the sensational style. depicting thrilling adventures of fair young gitts who come very near to being led astray through young noblemen who masquerade as music teachers, and govern-esses who are of gentle blood but reversed fortunes, and young lords who cannot come into their own on account of grandfathers and fathers who refuse to die and bequeath Immense fortunes to the hero. All these things are wrought into thrilling and very entertaining romances, which the higarian of the Enoch Pratt libraries says have a pernicious and demoralizing effect upor moralities of young girls. Hence Mrs. Southworth's novels are acratched from the handleap race for popular favor.

Mrs. Southworth, who lives in a pic turesque cottage overlooking the Poloma near the Aquaduct Bridge, could not be seen yesterday by a Times reporter, as sie was indisposed. Her son, Dr. Southworth, however undertook to defend his pother's name from the charge of having written immoral books. He claims that there is nothing in all her mass of fiction which has been read by countless thou sands in the past fifty years, to provoke comment or criticism of the kind that he been heaped upon it by the librarian o the Enoch Pratt libraries.

'My mother is so sure of the hold she upon the hearts of the thousands of American people who have read her work during the past fifty years," he said. "that she is not in the least concerned as to what libraries exclude her books. Her renders are her Judges. No one who ha ever read her works would dure say over his own name that they were immoral. I assert that all of them are of a high mora tone, and, although they do excite the passions of the young, the pussions ar

Mrs. Southworth, in her semi-century of novel writing, has written over sevent) As early as 1872, an edition of he works of fiction was published including over thirty-five novels. Since then she has written as many more. Her writings, a s rule, powers strong dramatic power, but are highly coloted. Mrs. Southworth is now well on in years, but at times writes i little, and is at present understood to be sugaged on another new novel which is shortly to be published.

In the same class with Mrs. Southworth when the edict of expurgation went forth from the Baltimore Library was Bertha M. Clay and other writers of fiction as known Perhaps the cruelest blow of all infliered upon Mrs. Southworth was to cla her in a literary sense with Bertha M. Clay. who has long been looked upon as second only to Laura Jean Libbey in the matter of turning out sensational teading matter Bertha M. Clay's greatest effort was a novel called "Dota Thorne," which wor for her thousands of frenzied admirers of the feminine sex who delight to browse upon such literature. All of her early novels were paralished in sensational weekly family story papers, which circulated among pe ple of the lower classes, who almost live upon their emotions.

were published in similar publications they were, as a rule, much more elevated in tone, and more deserving of the enither of true literature which will live and be enjoyed by the masses long after the author has passed away. In that respect, Mrs. Southworth has a distinct advantage over Bertha M. Clay, whose popu of several years ago has already passed into the sere and yellow leaf. In, fact, it is said that Mrs. Southworth's movels, or some of them, will be of great historical value in the future, because she depicts with a true pen and a vivid imagination, but none the less truly slave life in the South before the war. Those of her novels Which treat of Southers life and manners are said to be among the best ever written on that subject, not "Uncle Tom's Cabin.

As for Bertha M. Clay, placed in the same category with Mrs. Southworth, her evamement popularity depends only upon the vivid imaginations and fleeting phan tusies of those lovers of polite fiction where wirtue always triumphs in the end, and where everything is sacrificed for the sake of a dramatic climax absolutely unbeard of people will no doubt like Eertha M. Clay, and her books will doubtless sell to a certain extent, but it was-most unkind of this Baltimore librarian to classify Mrs. thworth with Bertha M. Clay.

The list of books which were stricken from the catalogue of the library included the following:

"Allsworth Abbey," "A Beautiful Flend," "The Bridal Eve," "The Bride of Liewellyn," "The Bride's Fate," "Changed Brides," "Cruel as "The Curse of Clifton." ay," "The Deserted Wife," the Grave."

"Nearest and Dearest," "A Noble Lord,"
"The Frince of barkness," "Retribution,"
"Self Raised," "Three Beauties," "Tried
of Her Life," "Two Sisters," "Unknown." The Unloyed Wife," "Victor's Triumph, "Vivia," "The Widow's Son," Wife's Victory." In addition to these works which from their titles suggest the field they enter, and as well a ground for objection, the following books of short tories by Mrs. Southworth, written in Matsoration with F. H. Baden, have been withdrawn: "The Artist's Love," etc.: "A bristmas Guest," "The Fatal Secret," A Phantom Wedding," and "The Spectre

MARVELOUS X-RAY WORK. Great Discovery Chimed by a Physician of Baltimore. Paltimore, Aug. 28.- A remarkable discovery by means of the Roentgen rays is claimed by Dr. Robert Xavier Giering, of

Dr. Glering states that by means of the x-ray he can develop any ordinary photograph of a human being showing plainly all the internal organs and the bony structure of the body of the original of the photograph. In other words, the doctor maintains that an ordinary photograph is not only a likeness of the ontward appearance of the individual, but that it contains a reproduction of everything in the body, and that all that is necessary to make all visible to the naked eye is to put the photographs through a series of developments under the x-ray. In speaking of his investigations, Dr. Giering says:

"Of course, I cannot disclose the process which I employ, but I do not mind relating how I made the discovery. Six months ago was employed as a lecturer by the Edison Company of New York, to give illustrated lectures on the Roentgen rays. I went to most of the Southern and Middle States in my work, and have been constantly engaged in experimenting with the x-rays. About two weeks ago I was testing a new apparatus in my office, and made an x-ray photograph of my hand. I placed a plate on the table directly under my apparatus. It was necessary in order to produce a clear picture to place some article between my band and the plate. For this purpose

The Affliction Previously Inter fered With His Business-How He Is Able to Hear as Well as Anyhody.

Mr. R. Wilkinson, a prominent store keeper of 1634 Thirty-second street northwest, Washington, D. C., says: "I am fifty-four years of age, and until I took treatment at your institution I was af-flicted with catarrh, and was deaf for ten years, so much so that it was impossible for me to conduct my business as it should be done. I was treated at one time by a specialist for three months, but received no benefit whatever. At another time two prominent specialists treated me daily for over three months, and I was worse than when I commenced. I was so deaf that to tell if a watch or clock was running I had to watch the second hand and pendulum. I placed myself under the care of Munyon's specialists and after the first treatment I could hear, and have been improving ever since. I can at present hear conversation in a low tone of voice. Can hear the clock tick in my room from a room on the lower floor, something I could not do before in three years. I can also hear my watch tick tome feet away, which was simply impossible before. In fact, I can now hear as well as I ever did."

Muyono's remedies comprise a separate cure for each disease, and are sold by all druggists, mostly 25 cents a vial. PAYMENT FOR TELEGRAMS. Western Union Company's Claims for Official Messages. First Assistant Postmaster General Perry Heath has under preparation his report as referee in the case of the Western Union Telegraph Company against the Postoffice Department. This report will be presented to the Court of Claims, before which court the contest will be made. This claim against the department involves a sum of between $600,000 and $1,000,000, and is for the Pansmission of Government telegrams.

A law passed by Congress in 1866 gives to the Postmaster General the right to fix the rate at which telegrams shall be trans-mitted, not only for the Postoffice Department, but for the other departments of the Government. When Mr. Wanamaker became l'extrassfer General he urged the de strability of a postal telegraph, but failing a this he fixed the rate for telegraphic mes ages at a lower rate than the Western nion would accept.

Wangmaker fixed the rate in 1890 at 10 certs for ten words for all dis-unces up to 400 miles, and bulf a cent or each word in excess of ten. He fixed he rate at 15 cents for the first ten words or distances between 400 and 1,000 miles with three-quarters of a cent for each ad ditional word. Half a cent a word was fixed as the rate for distances above 1,000 miles. For night messages he allowed 15 cents for the first twenty words for all distances, and half-cent for each addiional word. He reduced the rate on mesages for the Signal Service from 3 cents o 2 1-2 cents per word The Western Union could not refuse to ransmit Government telegrams, but was ssatisfied with the rate. They did not render any bills. Postmaster General Bisselincreased the rate practically to the fig-ure from which it had been reduced by Mr. Wanamaker. Then the Western Union sought to collect its bill for services rendered under Mr. Wanamaker. The bill was presented to the Court of Claims for advisors. judication. The court appointed two referees, one, Mr. William A. Brown, for the telegraph company, and O. Shepherd, chief of the division of salaries and allowances of he Postoffice Department, for the departhepherd did not. He was relieved of his duties at the department and it beecessary to appoint a representative of the lengriment in his stead Postmast General Gary recommended his first assistant and then the Western Union uggested that Mr. Heath be made sole referee. This was done by the Court of Claims and then Mr. Heath began work on the report, which he will soon present to old, and was discussed when it was suggested in October last to admit women to the Catholic University. Becoming a littsburg paper with German shared by the British government here and in India, and action is being taken on this line, and Mgr. Schroeder was con-nected with the authorship or inspiration of the article. This story is further emtellished by the statement that Mgr. Scroeder is in Rome protesting against the proposed institution, and that he had so far succeeded that orders had been issued to from that source as to Mgr. Martinelli's receipt of protests from prelates and instructions from the Pope. Mother Julia, the head of the order of the Notre Dame Sisters in this city, is stitution who would assume to speak for It is stated that one of the objections to that proposed there was intended by Mere Julie, the founder of the Notre Dame Sisters. On the contrary, it is held clearly by some of the authorities of this order that the higher education of women is a necessity of this age, and that the order would keep pace with modern thought and It was well understood that the Catholic girls, if they could not attain the highest possible education in their own church, would seek it in institutions not under the auspices of the church. It was stated that the new demands at the close of

of the Notre Dame here and elsewhere

the century would have been indorsed by Mere Julie were she living today. It has already been stated in The Times that the design of Trinity College has been warmly inforced by Cardinal Gibbons and the highest dignitaries of the church. It can also be assumed that the papal sanction bad been secured for the design. It is proposed to begin the building of the col-oming Herders' Camp. Casper, Wyo., Aug. 28.-All is excitement in Casper over the loss of a two-yearold child that was carried away by a mountain lion on Casper Mountain yester day. A fruitless search was made by bur dreds of herders and miners. The little one is an orphan in care of a family named Henderson.

At daylight yesterday morning Henry Henderson left his wife and the orphan charge sleeping in camp. When he returned at 8 o'clack for breakfast, the turned at 8 o'cleck for breakfast, the bas ever seen. Instead of cultivating those woman was still fast asleep and the babe truits that would have made him a great was gone. A search was made and its barefoot track was found leading to a cheek, wind, profanity and deception as a spring. Near the spring and by the babe's capital. The politicians will not stand it, track, was found the fresh track of a buge mountain lion.

THE TROUBLED REGION IN INDIA. cation of women. This report is a year away, and that the guns and rifles will be generally used a piece of cardboard, but on British troops before the year is much older. These apprehensions are undentably shared by the British government here accordingly. There would not be 40,000 men under arms along the northwest suspend.

Archbishop Martinelli is not in the willing to give up the command of the city, nor is Dr. Rooker, nor Mgr. Sbaretti, so that no information could be obtained here. Lord Robertz repiled with a cheerful empire contemplate the possibility of having to engage at no distant date in a was with Afghanistan, backed, perhaps, by out West and there was no one at the in- Russia. That would be a life and death struggle in good sooth. It is interesting that in such an emer-gency a considerable portion of the British the college is that no such education as press and politicians is engaged in villifying the government and putting the gentle Afridi on the back. Some of these criticisms are perfectly justified by the facts It is awkward for the British government to be told by an influential newspaper at this particular juncture that "Too large a section of the British officials in India are looking upon the peninsula as a mere place to sojourn. They apply themselves assiduously to pleasure, while another section seem to regard India as the scene of exploitation their concern being with their own personal advancement rather than the per-manent welfare of the great dependency. Promotion and distinction await them if an attack is made upon some poorly armed frontier tribe, and they care nothing if the rely overtaxed people have to bear the whole financial burden of frontier raids. India is not being governed for its inhabitants; it is, to a most dangerous extent, being exploited for bureaucrats and military adventurers." The same caustic critic suggests that the generals commanding on the northwest frontier are incompetent, and amiably sioned officer to the spot with a contract to do the job by disposing of the tribesmen within a time limit.

yesterday: "The expression of the convention at Ocean City voiced the sentiments of the whether they are diseased or not.

this occasion I was unable to find it, and instead picked up a photograph from a pile of pictures that lay on the table. While developing the photograph later on I was in terrupted and went away from myoffice for several bours. the only probable enemy. Moreover, I am enabled to state that the government has asked Lord Roberts, the hero of a hundred Afghan fights, whether should be when the returned I proceeded with the development of the picture of my hand, and to my astonishment if ound that across it was the picture of a man's body. It never occurred to me that I had used in place of the piece of cardboard, and as my curiosity was thoroughly aroused, I proceeded anxiously with the development of the picture. To my further aston-"Yes." The position, therefore, is that the responsible governors of the British on my hand was being revealed perfectly naked. In the course of half an hour I had developed the strange picture sufficiently to see every rib in the body. "I had not up to that time considered whose photograph I had used, but this was made clear to me when I noticed a bullet wound in the right arm. I saw at once that I had used one of my own pictures. and was astonished to find that the negative thus produced was my own body, ab solutely naked. I made another negative from this, and the second negative showed all the outer tissues of the body. Con tinuing, I made a third negative, and this showed plainly the heart, lungs, liver and kluneys. In this negative was also plainly shown the bullet lodged in my right arm where I had already seen the mark. "More than this, even the small arteries were "isible. When I had succeeded thus far I conjouded that I had made a great discovery by mere accident, a discovery which establishes a great fact hitherto unknown to scientific men, namely, that a photograph is a thorough and through likeness of the body of the individual, and that all that is needed to display every portion and organ to the naked eye is to put the picture through a series of developments under a powerful light.

"It must be considered that the x-ray is immeasurably stronger than any other light we know of. I have no doubt that the result of my experiment will lead others to make further investigations, which may lead to greater and more startling developments The benefits of this dis covery to the medical fraternity and to men of science generally can be readily appreciated. A man residing far from a physician can now send his photograph, have it put through the course of development, and when the last negative reached, showing the internal organs, the physician can proceed to develop each organ separately and can finally ascertain
